Good Design annually awards designers and manufacturers for the perfection, creativity, and innovation of their work. Selected winners are the most talented creators who promote design as the art of evolution, the art of a better future.

This year, GOOD DESIGN® celebrates its 70th Anniversary with a tribute exhibition entitled "GOOD DESIGN SHOW EUROPE 2020" in THE EUROPEAN CENTRE, Mitropoleos 74, Athens, Greece, featuring winning products and graphics from the GOOD DESIGN® 2019–2020.

In 2019, over 900 products, graphics, and packaging were awarded Good Design to the most visionary designers and manufacturers from over 48 countries.

For 2020, some of Europe's best design firms participated in the exhibition representing design for electronics, health care, transportation, furniture and lighting, household products, kitchen and bath, office and work environments, tools, sports, personal items, graphics, and packaging.

Under the banner "Build A Better World Now" designs for buildings and products that emphasize the most advanced green approach, product designs and architecture projects were awarded the GREEN GOOD DESIGN® and will also be featured in the exhibition.

The GOOD DESIGN SHOW EUROPE 2020 is under the auspices of The Chicago Athenaeum: Museum of Architecture and Design and The European Centre for Architecture Art Design and Urban Studies, together with Metropolitan Arts Press Ltd.

Sherman and Joyce Bowie Scott Hall at Carnegie Mellon University, 2017

Architects: OFFICE 52 Architecture, Portland, USA

Associate Architects: Stantec

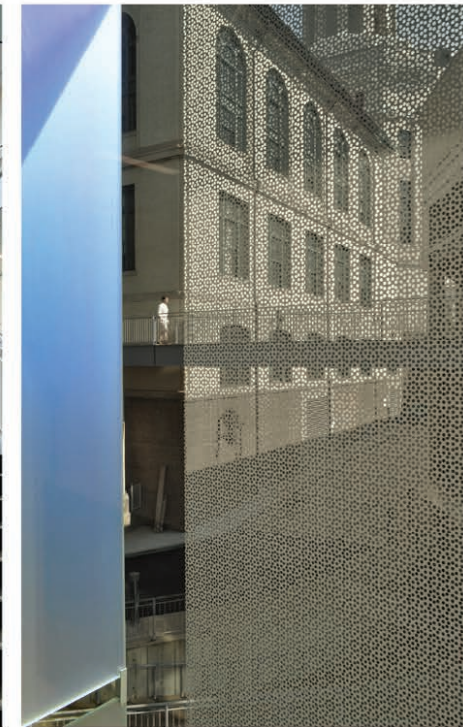

Client: Carnegie Mellon University

General Contractor: Jendoco Construction Corporation

Photographers: Jeremy Bittermann, Isaac Campbell

Scott Hall is the College of Engineering's new LEED-Gold 109,000 square foot Nanoscience, Bioscience and Energy Technologies Building at Carnegie Mellon University. The design embodies Carnegie Mellon's interdisciplinary culture to create a vibrant, collaborative research center at the forefront of advanced nanotechnology and complex engineered systems. With high-performance glazing, custom ceramic frit, spandrel glazing and custom dichroic glass sun-shades, the building envelope exceeds performance goals to produce one of the most energy efficient lab buildings in the country. By adding the materials of light and color, reflected and transmitted, we turned the building into a dynamic interplay of nano-inspired color and texture that shifts throughout the day dependent upon the angle of sunlight striking the glass and the observer's position.
